

If Hitler used Twitter...

We've been experimenting with Twitter a lot more recently, as it seems to be reaching a critical mass. Whether it grows and stabilises to become a useful tool, or fizzles out once people get exhausted from information overload, only time will tell.

Certainly at the moment, it is an excellent way to connect to and develop relationships with an extraordinary range of people.

One thing that seems to be an issue at the moment is Twitter server overload. Occasionally though the day, the site goes down, to be replaced with the "fail whale" graphic and a request to try again soon.

So, some creative type thought...what if Hitler had used Twitter...